Exhibit Shows Everyday Life in Early America

WASHINGTON—"Everyday Life In Early America" is portrayed in a new hall opened by the Smithsonian Institution.

Filling a gallery 180 by 55 feet, the new hall is a novel installation. It provides for the first time in Washington a comprehensive display of the domestic paraphernalia, furnishings, and settings of seaboard America from its initial European settlement to the industrial revolution. Also for the first time in an exhibition of American cultural history in a large museum, it introduces the revolutionary new exhibit techniques which were first applied to exhibits of natural history. In an actual 17th-century house, in four other room interiors, in an early 19th-century schoolroom and in 22 professionally designed case exhibits, specimens are used not only to exploit their own intrinsic qualities, but also to illustrate ideas and tell a narrative history.

Illustrations, diagrams, models, maps, and narrative labels supplement specimens, while colorful backgrounds and dramatic lighting help to vary pace and overcome "museum fatigue." Push-button switches, which the visitor can operate to change room lighting from daylight to candlelight, and an introductory tape-recording triggered by the proximity switch add modern dimensions to this hall of antiquities.

Fatal Accidents Higher in 1956

NEW YORK—Fatal accidents in the United States during 1956 took approximately 96,000 lives. It was the second successive year in which the total increased, figures for the recent year being about 2,000 higher than that for 1955 and 5,000 higher than the 1954 total.

The rise is accounted for by the increase in fatalities from motor vehicle accidents, which numbered approximately 40,000 in 1956. This is about 2,000 more than in 1955, and established a new high annual toll.

The number of lives lost in each of the other main classes of accidents showed no appreciable change from the preceding year. Accidents in and about the home were responsible for approximately 28,000 deaths, public accidents other than those involving motor vehicles killed about 16,000 persons, and occupational accidents about 14,000, of which more than 3,000 involved motor vehicles.

Early Artist Painted Record of Old West

WASHINGTON—When the wild west was "wild" 125 years ago, it occupied almost exclusively by red men of many Indian tribes, an American artist wandered among these Indians painting portraits of eminent individuals, ceremonies, dances, villages and landscapes.

He was a prolific painter, sometimes producing four or five pictures in a day. On the whole his work was extremely realistic and presented a faithful picture of the early west. This sometimes is quite different from that gleaned from textbooks or romantic histories.

This painter, George Catlin, of Philadelphia, was an ex-lawyer whose mother had been an Iriquois prisoner in the Wyoming Valley (Pa.) massacre. He traveled with companies of army dragoons, with traders and explorers, and quite often alone. Throughout he remained on friendly terms with the various tribes of Indians.

Distance No Matter To True Music-Lover

CHICAGO—In rural areas, long distances make little difference to music lovers. Driving hundreds of miles to a concert is not unusual. In a thinly populated section of Northern California, some 60 members of the Humboldt County Little Symphony travel 130 miles weekly to attend rehearsals. Members are housewives, ministers, teachers and retired persons.

Mountain neighbors living in the Asheville, N. C. area drive up to 30 miles to play traditional mountain ballads by ear on banjo, guitar, fiddle and mandolin. In Colorado, a music teacher, Lloyd Bader, travels 60,000 miles a year in a trailer to provide music classes for five towns and three rural areas

Versatile Product

NEW YORK—In 1948, International Nickel announced a revolutionary new foundry product commonly known as Ductile Cast Iron. Although made in the iron foundry, this new product is unlike ordinary cast iron in that it is not brittle and can be bent or twisted. Today it is widely accepted for numerous engineering applications and is expected within the next few years to become the third ranking industrial engineering ferrous metal on a tonnage basis.

Saved Through Safety

Chicago.- Sixty thousand lives were saved last year - through safety.

The 1957 edition of "Accident Facts," the statistical yearbook of the National Safety Council, which is just off the press, shows that the accident death rate in 1956 was nearly 40 per cent lower than for the five year period of 1908-1912—or 60,000 fewer than would have been killed at the old rate. This progress was achieved despite present-day hazards growing out of the speed-up mechanical age.

Greatest improvement in accident prevention ranged from 31 per cent for persons 65 years old and over to 54 per cent for children four years old and younger.

The death rate for persons 15-24 years old was as high as it was nearly 50 years ago.

Hero-worship is healthy. It stimulates the young to deeds of heroism. —High Points.

FARM NEWS

By J. A. Smith, County Agent

It's time to seed winter pasture in Appomattox. Late August or early September seedings will give pastures time to get well established before cold weather.

Winter pastures seeded early will provide grazing in the fall after permanent pastures are gone.

An acre of a well-fertilized small-grain winter pasture will furnish grazing for 3 to 5 cows for a period of 4 to 8 weeks, depending on the season. In recent tests conducted by the VPI Experiment Station, rye and mixtures of rye and barley yielded more than other commonly used mixtures for winter grazing.

Seed 2 - 4 bushels rye, barley mixture per acre, using 500 to 800 pounds of a 10-10-10 fertilizer per acre.

Here's How To Seed That Pasture

Lime— Add 1 - 2 tons if not limed for past 4 or 5 years.

Fertilizer— 800 to 1000 lbs of 2-12-12.

Encourage Deep Root Growth— This may be done by plowing down 1-2 or more of the lime and fertilizer. The portion of fertilizer and lime not plowed down should be applied and harrowed in just before seeding. Harrow and roll until seedbed is firm.

What to Seed: Seed 1 to 2 lbs of certified ladino clover and 6 to 12 lbs of Virginia grown or domestic orchard grass. For higher yields and more flexible use, 3 lbs of certified Kenland or Virginia adapted red clover or 5 to 8 lbs of certified Atlantic, certified Williamsburg, certified Buffalo, certified Narragansett, Kansas Common, or Oklahoma Approved alfalfa may be added to the above mixture. Always inoculate legume seed immediately before seeding.

When to Seed— Now—as soon as soil can be worked.

Avoid Deep Covering of Seed — Do not cover seed more than 1-4 inch in heavy soils and 1-2 inch on lighter sandy soils. Use corrugated roller, spike tooth or seeding harrow to cover seed immediately after seeding.

DOLLARS FROM HEAVEN

Paris, Ky.- Standing near a church for shelter from the rain, Jimmy Caywood, 15, saw a ball of wet paper at the mouth of a downspout. He picked it up and found it was a wad of thirteen $1 bills, apparently washed out of the pipe by the rain. Unable to find the owner, police returned the money to Caywood.

The United States, Great Britain and France have pledged they will not sign any disarmament agreement that would "prejudice the reunification of Germany."
